

Disney aims to be number 1

Nathan Disney already has two 1's on his car, but they form the number 11. He would really like another 1 to display on the car, but to get that digit he will have to finish number 1. No, this isn't some cryptic puzzle, it's just what the Hunter Valley based racer will have achieved if he wins the Kurrajong Shell Service Station NSW Late Model Championship at Brobenah Raceway Leeton (NSW) Saturday December 18.

And make no mistake, Nathan Disney would like nothing better than to secure that additional number 1!

"To win the NSW title at a super fast track like Leeton would be a real thrill. You rarely get the opportunity to compete on a unique track that offers up so many challenges" said Nathan from the Disney Motorsport workshop where team members have been busy the past few weeks preparing the Adamstown Car Doctors Rocket for its Championship challenge.

"Brobenah Raceway, with its unusual layout, high speeds, and oil based dirt surface is the type of track that will really sort the men from the boys. I've never raced there, but I'm counting down the days until I do!"

"It should be interesting to see how the different teams handle the different challenges. I'm sure there will be a lot of work undertaken throughout the Heats to try and find the best setup for the 20 lap Final. And that oiled dirt surface, well that's another challenge all together".

“I guess in the final wash up the Leeton track, in many ways, is not too different to some of the US tracks (apart from the surface), so we don't have many concerns about getting our car to work there. The main thing is I will really have to be on my game, as the leeway for error is small, especially when you are racing at high speed”.

“We have had a very strong season so far, and I wasn't too disappointed to finish second to Ross Nicastrì at our last Sydney start on November 27. Its racing after all, and you can't win them all, or can you?” quipped Disney.

“No, you can't win them all, but I sure as heck will be trying to bring that NSW title back to the Hunter Valley, and put another 1 on the side of the car” Disney concluded.
